

THE MARDI GRAS INDIAN SHOW

Co-producers Marshall Ferguson and Herb Gibson bring the authentic Mardi Gras Indian second line experience to special events, corporate meetings, destination weddings, jazz funerals, tourism promotions, sporting events and more. Working across tribes to bring the best entertainers to the market, Ferguson and Gibson's Mardi Gras Indian Show has been featured on Mardi Gras the Movie, Treme, on HBO, the Rachael Maddow Show and at International Jazz Festivals around the globe.

Marshall Ferguson, former president of From Within Management, New World Artist Talent Agency and Ferguson & Berry Talent has been managing and consulting for the entertainment industry for more than 30 years. It was clients such as Emanuel Lewis from the TV show "Webster" that were brought to light under Ferguson's representation.

Actor Herb Gibson, a New Orleans native, has worked in indie and feature films including Last Holiday starring Queen Latifah. It was Gibson's vision to make the 300-year-old Mardi Gras Indian culture accessible to corporate groups, weddings and special events.
